Key Changes vs. 2017MY MX-5

OVERALL

NVH (noise vibration harshness) has been improved upon for the 18MY. Road noise has been reduced by improving the sound insulation in critical areas such as the inner wheel housings and vehicle bulk head. Improvements have also been made in the areas of the front dash, and the transmission tunnel.

Despite the MX-5 being known for unmatched handling and road feel, improvements are always being made to maximize the feeling of Jinba Ittai. For 18MY the rear bump stop lengths have been adjusted and bushings have been altered to enhance chassis control during turn-in and unwind leading to more secure and consistent response characteristics. Fine tuning of the electric power steering has been made to maximize the impact of the suspension improvements.

Improvements have also been made to enhance ride compliance during less spirited driving scenes.

The quality and funcionality of the interior equipment has been improved without changing the interior design, such as an upholstered type sunvisor, an insulated mat added to the rear console box, and the addition of LEDs of the gauge that improve the visibility when the headlights are turned off.
